(ZA) SOUTH AFRICA

NOTE: South African programs and awards are offered in both official languages, English and Afrikaans. In the listing below, Afrikaans titles are presented first wherever a degree title appears in both languages. (For historical reasons, many Afrikaans degree titles are rendered in Latin. The degree title abbreviations are the same regardless of the language used.)

From 1948 to 1992 South African education was officially segregated according to the "apartheid" political ideology, which employed a racist theory of citizenship and human development to categorize ethnic groups by their presumed capabilities and mutual affinities or lack thereof. While this system is now being dismantled, it remains influential and is reflected in the variety of degrees and diplomas offered, especially in teacher education.
